

SHANGHAI

Design Architect (m/f/x)

Overview

We are currently looking for Design Architects (m/f/x) for our office in Shanghai to develop ongoing exciting projects and competitions.

You can expect the following

- To create an in-depth analysis of the brief, understanding the project limitations leading to a clear design strategy to ensure success.
- Leading and actively participating on a wide range of early phase projects, including competitions, concept studies, commissions etc.
- A high degree of autonomy and collaboration within the studio with likeminded individuals between our offices in Beijing, Berlin & Munich.
- Communication with clients and special planners, integrating their input into the project.
- Preparing submissions and presentations showing the best way to communicate your ideas in a convincing way.

You bring along

- Great conceptualisation and design skills with a clear ability to communicate and develop concepts in a convincing manner utilising a range of tools, including sketches, models, renders, plans etc.
- Can lead or be part of a team, establishing a common vision for the vision of the project, and ensuring team spirit during the design process.
- Know how to drive the design process through each of its stages ensuring the project is delivered on schedule and within the requirements of the project.
- A Master degree and at least five years of relevant professional experience in competitions, studies, and concept designs, ideally within China and on an international level.
- Self-initiative, motivation, passion, and creativity.
- Excellent communication skills in English, though German or Chinese are also a welcomed.
- A strong ability to work between 2D & 3D CAD with software skills in Revit, Rhino, Photoshop, Indesign; rendering programs would also be desirable.

We offer

- Great project variety, a wide range of project typologies and a large design scope with a high amount of creative freedom.
- A large array of resources available at your disposal, from model making, rendering & knowledge.
- A wide array of phases and flexibility in positions.
- Office in the heart of Shanghai with excellent public transport connections.
- International and interdisciplinary working environment with a young creative team that shares your ambitions and goals.
